CONTRAST

The Defterence Between English and American Homes At p esent there is no comparison between English and American homes, writes a correspondent of the New York Times from London America has not the houses, the servants nor the inducements' that belong to the home life of England. In the first place, the wooden house of the country districts of America is a poor substitute for the English cottage or villa. This will be strikingly apparent to Americans travel-Britain. There is no exaggeration of sentiment in the tributes which poets have invariably paid to "the cottage homes of England." The humblest persant householder in the country districts has often a picture-que little home, with a flower and kitchen garden altogether superior to the American villa one superior to the American vita one sees at outlying places along the radway routes. To have a house of his own is the chief ambition of an Englishman. Except in London and other large cities, no young man dreams of marrying until he has furnished a house and can literally take his wife "home." Even ing out at a restaunant, "Home" means more in England than it does in America, and the home-life of New York bears no comparison to oughly settled class of men and women devoted to domestic service in America has much to do with this, so also, of course, have the heavy rents of good houses. The artisan's cottage and the middleclass house of England are almost unknown in the great cities of America. Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago have more to show in this direction than New York Yet, with these advantages on the side of England where the sanctity of home is a sort of religion, we exhibit to Americans at every street corner a sight which is peculiarly sad and loathsome—women drinking at publie bars, women with babies in their arms taking gin at all hours of the day, women often reeling into the streets in a state of drunkenness There is no deeper stam on the moral escutcheon of Great Britain than this public scandal, except it be open and shameless solutition by a crowd of prostitutes in the West and sacc End streets from dusk till long after midnight of every day that

EDS REPUBLICAN The quiet little own of Austin has had a sensation. A little while before Christmas it entered the wise little heads of a pair of our school ma'm's to make an effort to wake up at least some of the "dead natives," by preparing to have a Christmas tree at the U B Church on Christmas Eve As there had never been anything of the kind here the proposition was received with universal favor by old and youngthe "old boys" became young again and suffered themselves to be bled for funds, until enough was raised to make it a success (for the "old boys" remembered how they were sweet on school ma'm's when they were young and they were not hard to bleed ) The first thing to be done of course was to choose a "committee," and of course the school ma'm's were on the committee and empowered to go to your city and spend all the money they pleased for goodies, dolls and "things," and, gents, if you had been there to see you would have said that they knew their hiz' and did it well

"Botter Late Than Tever."

The arrangements were all completed in good time so when the crowd came, for crowd it was, there was no delay A beau tiful Christmas tree, tastetully airauged, met the eyes of the little ones, and some of the old, for the first time. To say the little ones were delighted would be put ting it very mild. Liverything was prompt. ly on time The services were opened at seven with prayer by Rev Sam R tobie of Warrensburg Then an opening address by the same, in which he referred to a class of pious gramblets who see in all merry making a lditional evidence of to tal deprivity, which a) for as this local ify is concerned was uncalled for, for when one of that kind of cattle comes here, we see at once that nature has made a sad mistake and we take it upon our selves to correct it by plaining him with a feather duster

Next was a rectation by Austin's comingurator Master Ray Peverly, then y some by the two Misses Peverly and Miss Mand Lickner, then the recitation of the poementified Annie and Willia's Prayer, by Mrs. Ritchie, which to be appreciated, must be heard. As an evidence that it was appreciated, it is only necessary to say that the house, which was full almost to suffication, was, during its rea dition, as still is the chamber of death. The scr. Hill will be pleased to see their friends vices were interspersed with sough by from two till eight p in , at the residence Mrs Rthie, Misses Mattie and Baile Stuart, of Whitmore, Miss Come Colman, of Austin, and Misses Lucas and Minnie Munson, of Warrensburg Mis Ritchie two to eight p in , assisted by Mrs O presided at the organ

Then came the distribution of presents which were mostly for the children, among whom were ? W Emery, (Uncle loc) who received two tin trumpets, and J P Moody one diminutive doll, (not cemed and faithful pastor of the Baptist entirely bleached) and one jumping jack, but there were some very preity and valuable presents from parents to children, or, what is more probable, from losney lovers to their sweethearts

The best of order and good feeling pre vailed throughout, and it was voted grand success—to be repeated in '81 ONE WHO WAS THEFT

Our entire stock has been selected with the utmost care, and bought directly of manufacturers and importers, consequently we feel sure we can give you LOWEL PRICES than any firm in the city, and at the same give you a PAR BETTER ONLESS. Tion of goods than you would be able to find could you see the other stocks of our city combined. We have just returned from New York and the Eastern Markets, and were there at the season when the holiday patterns were "brought out," and therefore, were enabled to select many things that will not be found elsewhere in

We should like very much to have the opportunity to show you through our line and GIVE YOU PRICES. We have always made it a point to have all our adver-tisements STRICTIY TRUE, and when we allude to our stock being so far in excess of all others here, and our prices lower, we do so knowing that an inspection on your part will convince you of the facts.
